

PAIRDEM

Period Autumn 2014 – Autumn 2018

Title

Party-Interest Group Relationships in Contemporary Democracies

Abstract

A common view in scholarly literature and public debate is that the relationship between parties and interest groups shapes the nature of democratic governance. Still, party-group relationships have been largely overlooked by political scientists to date and taken for granted across different countries, institutional make-ups, types of party systems, and sectors. The proposed research project will advance the state of the art in this field by seeking to systematically examine the nature, the shaping factors and the consequences for policy-making of party-group relationships in long-established democracies across the world.

Researcher

Emilie van Haute (as country expert)

External partners

Principal investigator: Elin Haugsgjerd Allern (University of Oslo) and 8 country experts

Funding

The Project is financed by the national funding scheme "FRIHUMSAM Young Research Talents" (The Research Council of Norway) together with the University of Oslo

Website

<http://www.sv.uio.no/isv/english/research/projects/elin-allern-pairdem/>

